Athelington, Horham & Redlingfield News

Summer 2009

'VE been learning lots of, what I think are, interesting bits and bobs lately. This is partly because Chris Stanford got me to do a display on Redlingfield during the wars for the village flower festival and partly because I've developed an unhealthy interest in other village magazines.

Being involved in this mag means I'm always looking at what other villages produce to discover any tips. This means I found out, from Stonham Aspal's mag, that what I thought were hummingbird-like bees are bee-flies – well I thought it was interesting.

For the flower festival I have only scraped the surface of village history and memories and would, over the summer – when maybe I'll have the time – like to talk to everyone who has memories of the village. We've been putting a lot up on the website so, if you've got internet access, look at www.redlingfield.suffolk.gov.uk and if not get in touch with me and I'll print out any pages you're interested in.

Also many thanks for the surprise presentation at the village cheese and wine thanking Janet and I, or me and Janet, for our work for the village. Now, I usually slope off when people start speechifying – and I either have a swift ciggie, get to the bar or, in extreme circumstances, find something useful to do – so it took a lot of prodding from Mrs Mike and Sue Chapman to keep me in place.

I was truly surprised and very grateful for the gifts. You didn't have to but we're very pleased you did.

Horham, meanwhile has been having almost too much excitement with a grenade, the 95th veterans visiting and the Bygones Rally coming – read all about it inside, as they say.

We'll only get a splash

THE MET OFFICE this week came out with a bold forecast for a great summer. Perhaps they agree with the old adage about the trees coming into leaf. "If the oak is before the ash, we will only get a splash", and this year the difference is very marked indeed.

DRIVING home across Cranley Green on May 1st, the car lights picked out a pair of eyes by the roadside. It was no fox this time, but a muntjac looking at me, sitting amidst a lot of broken mudflap, paralysed in the back and rear legs and a very sorry sight. I decided the best thing to do was to return with the .410 gun, a sad end for a fine buck deer. Sarah Buchanan, who works on the farm, and was previously licenced to cull deer, said he was a real old-stager by his rounded down horns and worn-away tushes. (I learnt the proper name for the long pointed teeth). She looked very scornful when I admitted the thought of road-kill venison had crossed my mind.

TWO NEIGHBOURS have phoned this week to report sightings of half a dozen deer at either end of the village, probably red deer, though they had gone before I got a look. A lot of people are saying there are too many deer about nowadays.

THIS weather is perfect for the nesting season and the birds have gone bonkers. On Sunday morning, May 3rd, a friend was doing the Redgrave Fen dawn chorus and heard a cuckoo at daybreak. We have most of the common migrants around by now, the chiffchaff and blackcap, the house

SUMMER: Saturday, June 13th, sees Horham's outdoor event fill the field opposite the church, not only with a fine view of St Mary's but also the opportunity to support the table at Daphne Harvey's tent. Please supply her with goods to sell, on the day, or telephone 384216. We are also planning to have a Coffee Morning on Saturday, 22nd August, in the Old School.

Athelington's Festival Day to celebrate St Peter is on Sunday, June 28th, with Morning Prayer at 11am, followed by a Lunch in the garden at Meadow Farm. Tickets are on sale from church officers. Monday 13th-Sunday 19th July is Open Churches Week 2009. St Peter's is usually kept locked, but will be open each day to visitors that week. Do come and take a closer look at its treasures, especially the carved wooden figures at the ends of the pews.

Redlingfield has summer outdoor events. The Church Council are most grateful to the Village Committee for an annual donation towards the cost of the maintenance of St Andrew's, and for keeping the churchyard tidy and attractive. A legacy from the estate of the late Joan Coe is a great encouragement for our task of ensuring the building is in the best of health. David Streeter martin, swallow and swift, and are hopeful the spotted flycatcher and turtle dove will return. Our first swallow always seems to use our yard as a resting stop before moving on further north, and it is not until later in the season that our "regular" arrives and lays claim to the rafter in the woodshed.

John Glover says the Tivetshall swifts are back under the tiles of his and his neighbours' houses, last year they bred well and the numbers topped forty before migration got underway.

We have got two mallard broods of seven each. Mallard ducks seem to be very suspect on the mothering skills, but these two are making a better fist of it than usual.

Although the skylarks are on the so-called amber list, meaning their numbers are of concern, most people say that they are doing well locally. My environmental scheme on the farm includes "skylark plots". These are bare plots in the middle of fields something like 4x4 or 4x6 meters in size, left undrilled in wheat crops.

The theory is the skylarks are happier to alight in these bare patches and walk into the crop to their nests, rather than dropping into the thick crop canopy from above. This was trialled by the RSPB and rolled out into a national scheme when it showed that skylark numbers did show some increase. So those bare patches you may see from the roadsides sometimes are not tractor driver mistakes!

HE New Reeding Woods Group AGM was held at the Red Feather Club on 25th April 2009. Group chairman David Mitchell reported on another successful year with the woodland at Pound Lane continuing to establish well.

Work parties have mulched the young trees with spent mushroom compost donated by the local mushroom farm and the smaller trees have now been given plastic shelters to help them overcome weed competition.

The pond continues to have a problem with algal bloom, but is otherwise becoming well established, and in the meadow cowslips, primroses and ox-eyed daisies are taking over. The group have plans to purchase a small tractor to add to their equipment, and have in the current year purchased a tipping trailer.

Adjacent to the Red Feather Club lies Redlingfield Wood and David led a walk around the wood, explaining how it was managed. Older parts of the woodland date back to medieval times and some of the veteran trees are about 500 years old.

In other parts of the woodland there are trees that had only been planted about 40 years ago. Clearings in the woodland are rich in wildflowers – the rarer flowers growing there suggesting that these were the remnants of ancient meadows.

The walk left us all with an image of how Pound Lane Wood will develop over the coming years.

We were fortunate to have a beautiful spring evening for this walk and returned to the Red Feather Club for refreshments and to see the progress being made there to refurbish and re-establish the site.

Our thanks go to David and Sue Mitchell and to the Red Feather Club for their hospitality.

Working for Fairtrade

ELLO again – I've been quiet for a while, but be assured I am working hard for Fairtrade! I've been giving quite a few talks this spring – my favourite was at Diss Junior School, where I prepared a whole new talk, with games and props. I received a big envelope full of thank you cards and letters from the children, who really enjoyed the visit. I think they especially enjoyed holding a cocoa pod, and breaking it open to see the raw cocoa inside, and to get that fantastic chocolatey smell.

The shop is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday 11am-1pm inside St Peter & St Paul's in Eye.

We want to open more often in July and August, when we see the most visitors – however, we will need more help to make this happen. Volunteers to open one morning a week – or perhaps just a few days during these months are very welcome to get in touch. I hope we can get support to open five mornings a week, because now we have work ongoing to create the Abbey Room and toilets, it is important we are there to let visitors know what is happening in our beautiful Church.

Upcoming events at which we are taking a stall include: Finningham fete, Saturday June 6th, 2.30-5.30pm; Gislingham Arts/Crafts festival, Saturday & Sunday June 13th/14th, 10am-5pm; and Framlingham Market Saturday June 27th & July 4th.

We raised just over £2,200 in 2008/9 – a little above what we achieved in the previous year. We have yet to nominate a small international development organisation/charity for this sum – if anyone has any suggestions or information for us to consider, do let me know.

Contact 01379 384558 & invite a stall to your event. Sue Watson

FLYING HIGH: If you are interested in aircraft the place to be on Sunday August 16th is the Norfolk and Suffolk Aviation Museum at Flixton where Diss and District Royal Air Forces Association are organising another event. A Spitfire and a Hurricane from the Battle of Britain Flight should be the star turns as they fly over the museum. Also taking part will be an Army Air Corps Apache helicopter from Wattisham and the search and rescue helicopter, which was the main attraction last year when RAFA's Salute to 90 Years of the RAF attracted an estimated 3,500 people. This is the 100th anniversary of the first flight from France to England and RAFA will try to give the event a French flavour. RAF Honington will be taking part with a static display and some musicians. The Air Training Corps will be represented by cadets from the area, including the Lowestoft ATC band. There will also be historic vehicles in addition to the many aircraft and other exhibits which are on show at the museum. Car parking and admission are free. Gates open at 11am and the action continues until 5pm. For more details visit www.onesuffolk.co.uk/DissandDistrictRAFA Brian Ager

Set for summer dances

FTER a Winter season of practising, Hoxon Hundred are looking forward to the 'performing' season and we have added new dances to our repertoire.

Our busy Wednesday practises begin in St Edmunds Hall, Hoxne at 7.30pm and, of course, as would be expected of a Morris side the evening ends in the pub. We cannot fit everything into the Wednesday night practices and various other nights are put aside for those who sing, perform rapper, and dance Appalachian, or play instruments either for the dancers or in the Hoxon Ceilidh Band.

With all this going on we still managed to find time to fit in three winter events.

Hoxon have built up quite a Boxing Day following and this year we moved to a new location for our Christmas celebrations, the Kings Head at Brockdish (pictured above left).

Our second big event this Winter held on January 31st was the Hoxon ceilidh. The venue was again St Edmunds Hall, Hoxne. An excellent evening, well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Our annual Ale at Stradbroke Community Centre on March 7th (pictured above right) was well attended by members of six or seven Cotswold sides.

Wednesday pub dance outs this summer are (8pm unless otherwise stated): June 3rd, Black Swan, Homersfield; June 10th, Gissing Crown, Gissing; June 17th, Cock Inn, Fair Green, Diss; June 24th, Scole Nursing Home (7.30pm) & Cherry Tree, Yaxley (8.15ish); July 1st, De La Pole Arms, Wingfield; July 8th, Kings Head, Brockdish; July 15th, Duke William, Metfield; July 22nd, Low House, Laxfield.

Summer events: June 5-7th, Southwell Festival, Notts; June 21st, Diss Carnival; June 26-28th Aldeburgh/Southwold area; June 28th, Low House, Laxfield, lunchtime dancing with guest sides; July 10th, Ely Festival; July 19th, Ipswich Town tour with Barley Brigg; July 24th-August 1st Hoxon in France

'Sunday-go-to-meeting'

Most men who lived in the country used to have just one set of smart clothes. They would be put on to go to church and taken off immediately on arriving back home. They were called "Sunday best", although they would also see the light of day for christenings, weddings and funerals.

But I remember as a child being puzzled by someone talking about their "Best-Sunday-go-to-meetingsuit". It resulted in the inevitable question: "What does that mean Mum?" She carefully explained that some non-conformists did not have services – they called them "meetings". This of course prompted a much more difficult question from me: "Mum, what's a non-conformist?" It was the sort of question-and-answer session that any parent will have faced.

A lot of Suffolk people took great pride in their non-conformity and were willing to have long debates or arguments on the subject.

My grandfather, who was Church of England, but hardly ever left his own cottage and garden because he was blind, was visited by a Plymouth Brethren, who had a meeting hall just up the road from where he lived in Cotton.

My aunt listened in trepidation outside the door of the living room as voices were raised. When the other man had left she said to my grandfather: "I won't let that man come in again. He was upsetting you."

"Don't you dare", said my grandfather. "I really enjoyed that."

I suppose "non-conformism" is a round-about way to return to my Suffolk dickshunery with the letter "N".

Nannocking: Wasting time or fooling around instead of working – in "Them young fules are nannocking about 'stead of gettin on wi' things."

Native: Birthplace. I could say "My native is Burgate."

Nettus: Neathouse – cowshed. I know about a nettus because that is where my father milked the cows.

Noonings: The midday meal for farm-workers.

Nuttery: Hazel bushes – a logical name since nuts grew on them. Ont: Won't. "That mawther ont tek any notice of what I say." Ort: Nought, nil, zero.

MPS EXPENSES: Thinking about the row over MPs' expenses I wondered how thinking people could act so thoughtlessly. Most of them are honest so why behave as they have? I wondered whether part of the reason is that by insisting on party discipline above all else the political party system dilutes the sense of personal responsibility. MPs are then encouraged to follow the system without giving it real thought. Loyalty and discipline are positive values but not at the expense of personal responsibility. Too many of our social structures are tied up by similar rules. Evelyn Adey

Paigle: Cowslip.

Pamment: A square tile of brick used for flooring in some Suffolk houses, especially the dairy and backus.
Pample: Walk carelessly over something. "Don't you pample all over that garden. Oi've jist dug it".
Pightle: A small area of land – big enough to keep a pig. I had an uncle who lived in a street called The Pightle in Haverhill – but he kept rabbits.
Pingle: Push food around ones plate rather than eat it. "No wonder she's s'thin. She just pingle."

Podge: Fat

Pork Cheese: Called pork brawn in some parts. You make it by boiling up the pig's head and perhaps other odd bits. It was a way of using all the pig after it had been taken from the pightle and slaughtered.

Puggle or pug out: To wash clothes carelessly. "She just puggle all her things in a pail. She never put em in the copper and boil em." Push: A blister or boil.

Thas all oi ken think of at the moment. So I'll say: "Fair ye well tergether. Keep a troshin."

Planning for future of Recting's recent AGM and special meeting was a great success with 30 villagers – that's around a third of the population – making the trip to Horham & Athelington Community Centre. A record turnout!

There was overwhelming support for the idea of creating our own Parish Plan and to find out if we needed our own local "affordable housing" scheme. So it was decided to go ahead and produce a Parish Plan and also undertake a Housing Needs Survey.

The experts from Mid Suffolk and Suffolk Acre, who came along to tell us about it, were very knowledgeable but used a lot of jargon when they spoke, so I promised that I would try to explain what the real advantages are and what's actually involved:-From the village committee's point of view the biggest advantage of having a Parish Plan is that it gives us access to money for the village. These days, unless you already have a Parish Plan, it's almost impossible to get grants or funding for projects, for example grants for more play equipment on the Doorstep Green or money for traffic calming measures to reduce speeding in the village. Also, once complete, the Parish Plan can be used by us to get our voices and views heard and listened to (at least some of the time) by central and local Government when they make decisions that affect us all.

Every person and business in Redlingfield will be asked to fill in a questionnaire to identify what's important to them about the village that needs to be kept and preserved and what needs to change or be improved. There will also be a range of questions about local services, facilities, housing, the environment,

CALLING CARAVANERS: The 'Coffee Caravan' is looking for volunteers to help it reach rural Suffolk villages. The Rural Coffee Caravan Information Project, a charity which takes a wealth of information – along with tea, coffee and cakes – to villages across the county is looking for people to tow their two-berth caravan. Project Manager, Ann Osborn, said: "No regular commitment is required, just whatever you can offer. Even one day a year would help. Full training is given, expenses are paid, there's delicious cake while you work and we get out and see villages all over the county." The caravan operates on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays between April and October taking information about local and national agencies and organisations out in to Suffolk and giving villagers an chance to meet and chat with neighbours and the friendly volunteers over a cup of tea or coffee and biscuits or a slice of cake. Its monthly visits to Redlingfield (see what's on) have proved extremley popular with villagers. If you drive a vehicle suitable for towing a two-berth caravan and are willing to help out contact Ann or Penny Martin on 01379 855338 or coffee.caravan@btinternet.com employment and business opportunities etc which we can use to lobby for improvements. The questionnaires will be anonymous. Local groups, such as the Women's Institute and churches, will also be asked for their input and ideas. The results will be fed back to the village along with further village meetings for people to decide what they want the Parish Plan to say and what actions they want the village committee to take to bring about whatever improvements people want.

The Housing Needs Survey will ask everyone who lives in the village and their immediate family, along with anyone who works in the village, about their current housing situation and their future housing needs. This will help us find out if there is any lack of housing and if there is, whether what's needed is starter homes for young people, family homes or specially-adapted bungalows for people who are elderly or disabled etc. The survey will be confidential.

Basically this means every villager will get a chance to say what the real issues for Redlingfield are and in the end we will produce a plan for our future that we have all agreed on.

Home Guard's secrets

Brian Dade, digging in Pippa's garden, comes across a rusty lump of metal which is identified as a hand grenade. When I heard about this, one thought came into my mind, "Home Guard."

In another existence, researching home life in Northern Ireland during the Second World War, the Home Guard figured prominently. Some of the people who were directly involved told me the story of a secret army within the Home Guard. If the country was invaded this secret unit would become resistance fighters.

To facilitate their clandestine acts of sabotage and other resistance activities supply dumps were laid down in secret places. Arms, explosives, Molotov cocktails, food, money, maps etc. Everyone involved was sworn to secrecy, not to breathe a word to anyone, not even family.

In Northern Ireland, already full of secret armies and armed units of all sorts of persuasions, the whole idea was thought to be crazy and nobody took it seriously. They were quite happy to talk to me about it.

The "Mainland" was different I was told. There it was taken more seriously, they said.

So, Pippa's hand grenade started a train of thought. I realized that I knew almost nothing of the Home Guard activities here in Horham I would like to learn more. If Pippa had one grenade should there have been more and other things also? Were those responsible mortified to find a huge American air base built right on top of their so secret dump? Or was some careless part-time soldier disciplined for losing the platoon's one and only precious grenade while on some night patrol? That is assuming that night patrols and road blocks were undertaken in the same way as they were in Northern Ireland.

There they even acted as the Enemy in training very "green" American troops supposed to be training for an invasion of Germany [they actually ended up invading North Africa]. The Americans were careless with their live ammunition so the Home Guard, who always carried 100 rounds of live ammunition, loaded up and fired back, fairly accurately, much to the consternation of the Americans. Henceforth there were no more live ammunition exercises!

Were there similar activities here? Derrick Gibson-Harries

He later joined the army at the start of the Second World War, where he served with the Eighth Army Desert Rats, in El Alamein, Libya, Torbruk and finally Tripoli. He was injured in a bomb blast in the desert and spent time in hospital recovering from shrapnel wounds. They were married in January 1946 and moved to The Lodge, Horham, then they moved to Moat Farm Cottage, Horham. George died in 1993 but Gladys continued to live there until her death. Gladys was a member of Horham and Athelington WI and was president when it was disbanded in the mid-nineties. She loved to spend time in her garden where she grew many of the flowers that she decorated the church with. The church was a big part of her life. She rarely missed a service unless she was ill. She enjoyed the flower festivals and would spend hours doing her pedestal arrangements. Dancing was her other favourite pastime, spending Saturday nights at Wilby and holidays at Pontins, Kessingland. Being a member of the Happy Circle gave her great pleasure too as she looked forward to playing scrabble. She leaves a son, a daughter, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Your District Councillor reports

WHILE we await the decision of the Secretary of State regarding the Unitary bid for Suffolk and the possible demise of Mid Suffolk District Council we are still holding meetings and doing business.

As you will have heard Mid Suffolk has been voted the best part of England to live in for guality of live and longevity, we hope we have played our part in that.

There is a new government review being carried out by the Audit Commission called the Comprehensive Area Assessment. The aim is to deliver a vibrant and prosperous society for Suffolk. We hope this will deliver better funding for our health services and housing and economic future

The NHS Suffolk are consulting at present on out-of-hours services for doctors and dentists. This will be a totally new service when run out - not the extra hours that are planned for local doctors surgeries.

Hartismere Hospital is moving to the next stage where potental developers will be sought as the business plan is agreed by the Strategic Health Authority. Later in the summer there will be a chance to view specific plans for the Hartismere site as we begin to identify the services and treatments that will be housed there. I am verv excited at the prospect.

Elizabeth Gibson-Harries. District Councillor, 01379 384680

Your Community Police Officer reports

NOW that we are into summer and the evenings are lighter. please remember to secure garden equipment and sheds after use. This time of year thefts of lawn mowers and garden tools often increase.

Shed alarms can be purchased from your local Police station to help improve security. We have also seen an increase in the theft of scrap metal from outbuildings, so please be vigilant.

I visited the Coffee Caravan in Redlingfield in April and was pleased to meet many of you and discuss community issues. Hope to see you there again soon. Speed checks have also been conducted in the villages and we will continue to do so over the coming months.

Since my last report there have been no crimes in the area, which is pleasing to note.

A property photographing scheme has been introduced, which allows householders to have items of value in there homes photographed and recorded on a compact disc. The scheme is run by the Mid Suffolk Crime Prevention Panel and details are available from the Crime Reduction Officer on 01473 383410.

The Police have a Community Intelligence Hotline where information can be left regarding local offences. The number is 01284 774029. You can leave your details or be anonymous, but please help us to make your community even safer.

I would like to remind all of you who have yet to sign up to Police Direct of the value of doing so. All you need to do to register for free and vou will receive either an email or text message informing you of any incidents in your area. To sign up call 01473 613997.

I wish you all a safe and pleasant summer. PC Tim Green, Mid Suffolk North Safer Neighbourhood Team

More than a grand day out for the 95th

THE 95th Bomb Group Heritage Association held its Grand Open Day on Sunday, May 17th, at the Red Feather Club at Horham Airfield. To coincide with this year's Open Day some 102 guests visited from the US and Holland – 10 veterans from the 95th Bomb Group based at Horham and nine veterans of the 390th BG based at Parham, and their families stayed with locals and in hotels to enjoy a five-day programme of tours arranged by the association.

Visits were made to Parham Airfield Museum, Framlingham Castle, there was a banquet at Framlingham College, a visit to Bury St Edmunds, Sandringham House and Thorpe Abbots Airfield Museum. Some 350 people enjoyed a 1940s dance at the Red Feather Club in Horham with music from the 20-piece Super Swing Band in the newly-completed Blue Lounge, a 96ft by 24ft Nissen hut complete with fireplaces, all rebuilt from photographs taken during WW2.

The building was completed in just 10 months to celebrate the arrival of the US reunion party. It was rebuilt by volunteers with funding from Mid Suffolk District Council, Suffolk County Council and ongoing fundraising by the association giving the former NCOs' (non commissioned officers) club a function room and much needed space for the museum.

The Grand Open Day was the most successful and well attended to date with some 1,500 to 2,000 visitors – many staying locally and others camping over from the 1940s dance on the Saturday evening, to see a USAF Guard of Honor and an address by a KC-135 tanker pilot from Mildenhall to the visiting veterans, There were WW2 military vehicles, reenactors representing a US field hospital with operating theatre, airborne troops complete with a D-Day French farm diorama and US Army Air Forces in original flight clothing.

Many stallholders from other airfield museums and the Mid Suffolk Light Railway (Middy) all had a successful day fundraising, other stallholders sold aviation books, paintings, postcards and memorabilia.

A flypast of the UK's only airworthy Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress based at Duxford, the Sally B, was a magnificent sight for more than 1,000 people gathered at the main runway. It completed more than eight circuits of the airfield. A collection was held on the runway to help pay for the flypast, which was planned and paid for by the heritage association as this reunion would probably be the last time so many veterans and their families will return to their former base. Sadly the Battle of Britain Memorial Flight were unable to give a flypast this year.

On behalf of our team, I want to thank you all – our visitors and host families – for all your support, donations and help in making this a historic reunion and open day. James Mutton, Chairman, 95th Bomb Group Heritage Association

horham & athelington parish council/redlingfield village meeting

HORHAM:

SINCE our last report there has been much activity and preparations for coming events in our villages. The Bygones Rally committee has been very busy to be ready for the 13th/14th June. It is heartening to see such a big, well-organised event for such a small village down to a determined team of volunteers.

Our American friends returned to "Blighty" for a further reunion on 14th May. It is sad that so many of the 95th Bomb Group personnel have passed on but the strength of friendship continues to grow across the "Pond". During their stay, a comprehensive programme of visits and events was arranged by the "Friends of the 95th". A reminder of the conflict which occurred only recently; starting with some preparatory cultivation in a garden and turning into an emergency situation involving the bomb disposal unit (see page 25).

Our popular Fish and Chips evenings continue on a monthly basis at the Community Centre and will carry on throughout the summer months. Pre-booking is essential – booking forms at either Horham Post Office or Community Centre.

Angela Wilkins - Clerk 01379 384625

REDLINGFIELD:

THANK YOUS: Thank you to Andrew Howlett who has resigned from the village committee due to pressure of work – he was particularly appreciated for his willingness to get his hands dirty with unglamourous hard work behind the scenes. Thank you to PC Tim Green & PCSO Steven Long who have both recently visited the Coffee Caravan in Redlingfield and made good use the speed gun in the centre of the village. Thank you to everyone who broke their backs on the Wednesday evening to get the churchyard ready for the village's flower festival and to all those who made the event such a success raising £1,015 (see page 26 and www.redlingfield.suffolk.gov.uk). And finally, many thanks to everyone from Jan & Mike for the wonderful presentation at the village cheese & wine.

VILLAGE BBQ: The BBQ on the Doorstep Green is on Saturday, July 4, food from 7.30pm and bar from 6pm. Ticket prices have been pegged at £6, the same as last year. Tickets entitle you to three portions from the BBQ but you don't need a ticket if you just want to come along and enjoy the evening. We plan to have the bar open on Saturday, July 11; Saturday, August 29; and Saturday, September, 19. You can get BBQ tickets from: Andrew & Katie Abbott; Graham & Leslie Abbott; Joyce Saunders; Russell & Linda Kerry; Manday Miller; or contact Mike & Jan (see contact details below).

ST ANDREW'S: The church has been given a cash boost thanks to a generous £10,000 bequest from the late Joan Coe. The village committee voted give the church £500 this year. PLANNING: We are happy to report that the Brices have finally won approval to build a farmhouse on their farm on the Occold Road.

HIGHWAYS: The highways department have, hopefully, made the centre of Redlingfield safer with large chevron signs showing drivers how sharp the bend really is and patched up Occold Road and Rookery Lane.

BOMB SQUAD: It was a bit too exciting in Horham on Saturday April 11 thanks to Brian Dade. He unearthed an unexploded grenade with a mechanical digger when uprooting a tree stump in Pip Florance's garden in The Street. Officers from Suffolk police called the army bomb disposal unit from Colchester and, as you can see from the photos, the village was flooded with police. Villagers watched as the crew from the Royal Logistics Corps moved the grenade to a nearby field where there was more space to safely carry out a controlled explosion. The land where the grenade was found was previously part of RAF Horham and it is also thought the area may have been used by the Home Guard. If Brian had known there was a grenade under the tree stump, he says, he could have saved himself a lot of work.

FLOWER POWER:

Redlingfield's threeday flower festival raised £1,0105 for St Andrew's Church thanks to the efforts of the flower arrangers, helpers, organisers, those who tidied the churchyard and, in particular, to Hazel and Pauline Abbott. Eddie and Edith Coe would also like to thank all who helped with the tombola. Pictured are the Fair Green Quartet who played in the church on the Sunday. For more see www.redlingfield.suffolk.gov.uk
